Acknowledgements

This year's issue is yet again full of interesting and extraordinary texts, photographs and art works, for which we would like to thank each and every contributor.

In particular, we would like to thank Kathryn Hummel, who provided us with her intriguing and unique poems whose echo haunts us beyond the last page. We are indebted to Christin Hoene and Jane Boulden for sharing their witty and thrilling stories with us. We are grateful for the poems and photographs by Julia Davis-Nosko, which offer us new perspectives on supposedly trivial, everyday objects. We would also like to thank our most loyal contributors, Andreas Gloge, whose creativity and wealth of ideas luckily often sits at the heart of Turning Pages, as well as Marvin Bergt, who has been with us since the very beginning. We are happy and thankful that one of our former students, Amjad Alfayad, has found his way back to us in form of a creative retelling of Jane Austen in Chemnitz. We owe thanks to Christina Sanchez-Stockhammer, who complements our textual contributions with photographs that manage to show us Chemnitz (and the world) from new angles. Finally, we are ever grateful to Emma Fischer, who supports the editorial process of Turning Pages and enhances the journal both poetically and artistically.
