

Thomas Austenfeld (ed.)

Kay Boyle for the Twenty-First Century:

New Essays

Thomas Austenfeld (ed.)

Kay Boyle

for the Twenty-First Century:

New Essays

 Wissenschaftlicher Verlag Trier

Kay Boyle for the Twenty-First Century: New Essays

Ed. by Thomas Austenfeld. -

Trier: WVT Wissenschaftlicher Verlag Trier, 2008

ISBN 978-3-86821-031-6

Cover image: Kay Boyle

Reproduced by kind permission of the

Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center

(University of Texas, Austin), Photography Collection

Cover design: Brigitta Disseldorf

© WVT Wissenschaftlicher Verlag Trier, 2008

ISBN 978-3-86821-031-6

No part of this book, covered by the copyright hereon, may be reproduced or used in any form or by any means
without prior permission of the publisher.

WVT Wissenschaftlicher Verlag Trier

Bergstraße 27, 54295 Trier

Postfach 4005, 54230 Trier

Tel.: (0651) 41503

Fax: (0651) 41504

Internet: <http://www.wvttrier.de>

E-Mail: wvt@wvttrier.de

Acknowledgements

Sandra Spanier and Marilyn Elkins, keepers of the flame, have encouraged this book from the start. Ian von Franckenstein and Faith Gude, who preserve and treasure the work and the legacy of their mother, enthusiastically participated in the conferences that generated the early versions of some of these essays, and both gave gracious permission to quote from their mother's works. Members of the Kay Boyle Society offered support and encouragement at all stages of this book's preparation. The contributors to this volume cheerily responded to the editor's numerous and repeated queries for bibliographic precision and syntactical elegance, and they did their best to bring the volume to completion. The University of Fribourg provided an academic home, a well-equipped workplace, and other necessary support. Sămi Ludwig and Camelia Rata assisted in many different ways in the production and preparation of the manuscript. Kay Boyle's correspondence with Ann Watkins in Lisa Dunick's essay is quoted by permission of the Special Collections Research Center, Morris Library, Southern Illinois University Carbondale. The photograph of Kay Boyle on the cover is reproduced by kind permission of the Photography Collection in the Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center at the University of Texas at Austin. My family – in Switzerland, North Carolina, and Texas – kept me in good spirits. This collection is dedicated to the memory of Kay Boyle and to the necessity of her vision as well as her literary persistence in our century. It is dedicated as well to the memory of Burton Hatlen, groundbreaking Kay Boyle scholar who passed away while the book went to press.

Fribourg, Switzerland

February 19, 2008

Thomas Austenfeld

Contents

Thomas Austenfeld

Introduction: Kay Boyle for the Twenty-First Century 1

Anne Reynes-Delobel

"Calculating the leap from void to absence":
Abstraction in the Writing of Kay Boyle 9

Kevin McCabe

Language as the Vehicle of Transition in Boyle's Process 23

Jade Ellis

Kay Boyle's Examination of Gender and Economy
in Process and My Next Bride 33

Jennifer L. Barker

Double Exposure: De-composing the "Nazi Idyll"
in Kay Boyle's Death of a Man 43

Susan B. Taylor

Witnessing Before the Holocaust: Kay Boyle in Fascist Austria 63

Christine Hait

Kay Boyle and the Storytelling Tradition:
"The White Horses of Vienna" and "Winter Night" 75

Deborah Denenholz Morse

Redemptive Acts: "Winter Night"
and Kay Boyle's Gendered Ethics of Involvement 87

Page Delano

Loving Occupiers: Kay Boyle's Critique of Power
in Occupied Germany in The Smoking Mountain 99

Burton Hatlen

"What Happens to People When They Win":
Sexual Politics in Kay Boyle's Generation Without Farewell 119

Lisa M. S. Dunick

"I am not a business woman":
Kay Boyle's Negotiation of the Literary Market 133

Alexa Weik

The Wandering Woman: The Challenges of Cosmopolitanism
in Kay Boyle's Early Novels 151

Faith Gude

In Her Own Words 169

Notes on Contributors 173

Index 177